CIVIL SERVICE.

Commissioner Lyman Announces His Position.

On the Construction of the Civil Service Law.

He Thinks, with Oberly, that Association is Reprehensible.

Cleveland Appoints a Day for National Thanksgiving.

Lyman Takes the Stand.

WASHINGTON, October 25.—Civil Service Commissioner Lyman appeared before the senate committee on civil service this morning and was at once called upon by Senator Pendleton to state his views with reference to the recent order of the president in relation to the civil service rules. He said that in general his views coincided with those of Oberly. He objected to any association which has opposed the principles represented by the party in power. It is permissible to express an opinion upon any question of public interest, but it is objectionable if not illegal, and certainly reprehensible, to any greater or less extent to organize the public service and to effect one of the objects of the civil service law, viz: to secure non-partisan service, within the sphere of the operation of that law, a service non-partisan in fact and non-partisan in administration, in which partisan politics as a trade shall have no place. "The service," he continued, "must subordinate to the public service the party interests of the party in power; it may organize themselves into associations for the purpose of manifesting confidence in the party in power, and of supporting the administration of the civil service law; but they must also be constituted to those in the service opposed to the party in power to organize themselves into associations for the purpose of overthrowing that party and driving it out of power, and who all parties are thus organized and the members of the associations of each are actively engaged in endeavors to oust from the service members of the associations of [illegible] what a spectacle will be presented to the gaze of the country. The bare thought of the possibility of such a condition of things is enough to condemn the whole movement and should secure its instant abandonment."

Signing Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, October 25.—The following proclamation has been issued today by the president:

The goodness and mercy of God which have followed the American people during the past year claim their grateful recognition and humble acknowledgments. By His omnipotent power He has protected us from war and pestilence and every national calamity. By His gracious favor the earth has yielded its [illegible] return to the labor of the husbandman and every path of honest toil [illegible] His continuance the hearts of our people have been replenished with fraternity, contentment and patriotic endeavor, and in His unerring guidance we have been directed in the way of national prosperity. In the end may we most lowly render grateful for these blessings. I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby designate Thursday, the 24th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by all people of the land. On that day let all secular work and employment be suspended and let the people assemble in their accustomed places of worship, and with prayer and songs of praise give thanks to our Heavenly Father for all that he has done for us, while we humbly implore the forgiveness of our sins and continuance of his mercy to us, families and kindred [illegible] assembled on that day at their usual places of worship, which [illegible] and all [illegible] to the source of all their pleasure and the giver of all they make the day glad and joyous, and in the midst of our people and our happiness let us remember the poor, needy and unfortunate and by [illegible] and with honest [illegible] more for us increase the number of those who, with [illegible] in witness whereof, I have set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be hereunto affixed this [illegible].

Done at the city of Washington, this 25th day of October in the year of our Lord one thousand eighteen hundred and eighty seven and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twelfth.

[Signed] GROVER CLEVELAND.

Secretary of State.

The Storm on the Lakes.

MARQUETTE, Mich., October 25.—A life saving crew boarded the schooner Ava Bradley this morning and succeeded in landing the entire crew.

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., October 25.—The steamer City of Owen Sound was wrecked half a mile east of the Clapperton Island light house during the heavy gale of Monday morning. The crew left the wreck in life boats and had a narrow escape from being drowned. The steamer was owned by Smith & Keighley of Toronto, and was valued at $45,000.

More Cholera.

NEW YORK, October 25.—Cholera has broken out on the steamship Britannia, which has come into quarantine at the lower quarantine. The record of [illegible] deaths on board was [illegible]. The Alsatia passengers, who have been [illegible] one fortnight, are entirely [illegible] and to-morrow will be removed to Hoffman Island to join the Alsatia detained passengers. The Britannia is carefully guarded.

Preparing for the Last Act.

CHICAGO, October 25.—Preparations are already being silently made for the great anarchist drama of November 11th. Already, it is asserted, orders have been given to members of the Second regiment infantry, Illinois national guards that they will be required to be on duty [illegible] week prior to November 11th at their armory. The situation is getting serious in Ireland. Meetings called by an English association which has not been proclaimed have been suppressed. An English member of parliament has been arrested for trying to hold such a meeting. Editors are imprisoned for publishing accounts of suppressed meetings. This is a suppression of free speech with a vengeance. The English government has gone two hundred years. This cannot continue much longer. The only choice is to stop or proclaim martial law.

We have a prohibition party putting a county ticket in the field. But the prohibition only relates to selling liquor. Would it not show more sagacity to have an anti-lying party. This would be founded on opposition to something forbidden in the ten commandments and not on opposition to something that is not wrong per se. Then too it is a more pertinent issue. There is no danger of the occupants of the offices that the prohibitionists would all become liquor sellers and their opinion on this subject has little to do with the faithful discharge of their duties. But it is important that they hold right ideas about telling the truth and that they tell it. The evil of lying is probably greater in this city than that of intemperance. It is ruining the moral sense of many people and is a greater hindrance to honest, doing, greater injustice to the weak and innocent than intemperance. Besides this is not an evil like intemperance that only threatens the future of our youth, but an evil equally terrible in its effects on the character of men and women. If we are to endorse any party planks and the platforms for the election of county officers why not this one that means the most to us and on the duties which these officers are to discharge.

The prohibitionists held a county convention yesterday and nominated a partial ticket. We can hardly understand how the prohibition issue has anything to do with the offices for which candidates were nominated. Beyond the fact that the real issue in most of our population, we are not interested in the record of these men and a capable accountant in the county clerk's office, intelligence and courtesy in the assessor, being of business and accurate, in the surveyor of a good civil engineer, and in the coroner a man of brains who will be present at post mortems on some of the unfortunates of the county, we are not specially interested in the qualifications of the candidates. We do not know whether they are capable or not. We do not know whether they are honest or not. We do not know whether they are sober or not. We do not know whether they are temperate or not. We do not know whether they are moral or not. We do not know whether they are immoral or not. We do not know whether they are intemperate

THE INDIAN TROUBLES.

GOSSIP ABOUT THE CROWS AND OTHER SAVAGES

One Rich Tribe Families at $45,000 Each and Tribes at $1,000 Per Head The Chiefs Passing Away—Civilizing the Indians Slow Work.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. [Special.] Among the Crow Indians has been a topic in the Interior department. The Crows have always been the friends of the whites. They have fought with them in their fights against the Sioux and other tribes, and have been rewarded for their services by the Indian office. They have also been [illegible] their reservation in Montana and have more than 6,000 cattle.

It sometimes seems as if the Indians, and the Department of the Interior, were trying to outdo those Indian agents in the novels. [illegible] Crow agency in 1878, at which time several of the most noted chiefs were present. [illegible] They were accompanied by Gen. Sherman to the government, and I was able to give you at the time some of the most noted among the Crows. One of these is Big Crow, and another is the [illegible] Bear. The latter, as stated from his immense size. He is over six feet and looks as though he were [illegible] years of age, but I am not certain as to his exact age. There are many chiefs among the Crows that it is hard to keep track of. Twenty-seven years ago, Dr. Van Orsdel, [illegible] in the Interior department, made a report in which Big Bear was said to be about forty years of age. Another noted chief among the Crows is Big Bull. He [illegible] the Indians, and [illegible] Bull, a Bravest Bull, a Crowing Bull, a Standing Bull and a Deaf Bull.

The Elks are also numerous, and Long Elk was one of the chiefs who visited Washington. He is a handsome looking fellow, and his well represented in the picture which I give you. Handsome Elk is another fine looking Crow. Pretty Eagle also visited Washington, while Old Crow and Medicine Crow were among the party.

HANDSOME ELK

The Crows have a curious custom of disposing of their dead, but the [illegible] are fast inducing them to change this. They old custom is to wrap the [illegible] in blankets and buffalo [illegible] and to fasten them on the forks of trees. A [illegible] of this kind is quite a very land [illegible], and hunters and travelers give them a wide berth.

I understand that a number of the Crows have no desire whatever for land in severalty, and if their land could be divided [illegible] they would sell a large [illegible] of territory south of the Yellowstone. This Montana reservation, if divided up would give 1,000 acres of land to each man, woman and child of these tribes, and leave a good many large reservations.

The Indians are called poor, but they are in reality the richest people in the world. Properties of the Crows are worth $6,000 a family, and the Mandans are worth $25,000 a family. The Iowas are worth from $4,000 to $7,000 each, and the Cheyennes and Arapahoes [illegible] worth $2,000 each. The whole Indian territory contains 76,000 Indians, and the Cherokees alone have about 70,000 cattle, 100,000 hogs and 10,000 horses. There are no cattle when the whites. They publish their own newspapers in Utah themselves after a custom of some of the others.

There are now in the United States 247,761 Indians, and of these 20,000 are of mixed blood. A Kansas explorer of the Indian bureau thinks that the Indians will be finally swallowed up by the whites and their tribal relations will cease. There are now in the Indian territory a number of white men married to Indian squaws, and natives of this kind take place often on account of the money which the white man makes by the contract. There are a number of intermarriages between the negroes and the Indians in the Indian territory, and fifty years from now a pure blooded Indian will be hard to [illegible].

The Indian chief does not have as many power now as he had in the past, and I am told at the Indian office that the influence is soon to pass away. He has not the chance now to get the lion's share of the supplies which the government sends to his tribe, as the agents now distribute to the individuals, and what each man cultivates is his own piece of ground he will not be likely to support a chief in idleness.

Some of the Indians have begun to accumulate property, and even Crows have quite a business of carrying freight. They have turned their hunting ponies into [illegible], and have an [illegible] about them, says he could get 200 Indians to engage in this business if he had the wagons and horses for them.

I don't know that any of the Crows are very wealthy, but there is an Indian in Washington territory who is said to be worth $25,000. It is Chief Poone, of the Spokane tribe, who began to take up land when the Northern Pacific road was being surveyed. He owns some of the land on which the town of Spokane Falls now stands. He is said to own cattle, horses and lands and he cannot be induced to drink or gamble. Colyeau, the Ute, is said to be a man of property, though he is a drunkard and a brute.

Drink and gambling are the two great curses of the Indians, and there is in the National museum here a collection of implements which illustrates the games of chance played among the North American Indians. It contains among other things cards made of dried skins, taken from the Apaches. They are of the size of the ordinary playing card; they have rude pictures upon them, and they are made after the Spanish cards. There are spades, clubs, diamonds and hearts, but the spot cards end with the sevens, and the eights, tens and [illegible] are omitted in the [illegible]. The Zuni Indians are great dice throwers, and the Pueblos have the thimble-rig game, which is played by sharpers all over the world. In the case at the museum there are four little cups, and you must [illegible] under which the ball is hidden. The balls are of baked clay, and the man who owns the game is always the sporting gentleman who goes with our circus. The Crows gamble perhaps as much as any others of the Indians. Some of them can play poker, and they will bet the very clothes off their backs.

Some of the Indians [illegible] the Indian commissioner severely criticises the actions of the Creeks. They have a law by which when a man has fenced in a tract of land he can exclude all other Indians from settling within a quarter of a mile of him. A number of Indians in the Indian territory have cultivated farms of more than 1,000 acres, which are fenced in, and by this fence they assure to themselves the right to a thousand acres more lying around them. One Indian, according to Gen. Atkins, has a costly residence in the center of his farm and rents with large barns and stables, and he employs his own people to cultivate his farm dress, in part. If you can get an Indian to put on the white man's clothes you have made a great stride towards [illegible] Indian who will wear pantaloons without cutting the seat out of them is pretty well civilized. The squaw, however, laugh at a brave when he first appears among the [illegible] and it takes as much nerve for an Indian to discard his blanket for a coat as it would for a New York dude to throw away his fancy clothes and [illegible] blanket and [illegible].

Color in Real Estate Exchanges

Denver News.

The committee from the real estate exchange in the interest of wooden walls and houses, etc., had a meeting at Mr. Malcolm's office on Monday. Mr. E. P. Hallock was present and stated that for himself and associates he would organize [illegible] if a set of specifications would be made toward putting the old exposition company organized for stirring, stamping and waste [illegible] of wood.

J. T. Crawford in corroborating the one of the committee yesterday morning said that the project would only be favorable one, but a profitable one, and that to Canada from the hardpine grounds of the old exposition would be most convenient for growing to the fact that the machinery engines [illegible] now in place there, and that there is an inexhaustible well of soft water or rubble [illegible].

Quotations [illegible] were then read to the committee, and the matter was discussed [illegible] the committee [illegible] to be [illegible] to the [illegible] block of ground [illegible] most eligible location and it was instructed to [illegible] that many propositions will be made from various quarters in the matter of donations that have the city [illegible] in the success of its enterprise, cautioning the committee to believe that the citizens are now in earnest.

The wool growers of Colorado and the [illegible] throughout the state [illegible] invited to attend the meeting to be called by the chamber of commerce for the purpose of discussing the question.

Mr. Snow as a member of the committee, made the following statement:

That a most important part of the whole matter is not [illegible] Denver is a wool center. A storehouse is thus made a [illegible] of success of the foundation on which the success of the enterprise has to be built. A wire house and scouring works will give the wool growers a market for the clip and will draw to Denver the wool that is now shipped east at great cost and more to the wool growers. The wool growers in all the [illegible] of the middle part of the west and to [illegible] will readily [illegible] the wool growers' interests and the [illegible] desires in the state will receive [illegible] impetus from the success of the new enterprise. A wool warehouse [illegible] the wool grower the same [illegible] as the grain elevator is to the wheat grower. Wire house rope pits can be [illegible] and advances [illegible] as the crop [illegible] edge recovered.

Upon conference with the officers of the chamber of commerce it was decided to leave the matter of the public spirited citizens [illegible] Denver and the wool growing [illegible] on Thursday. Secretary [illegible] at the chamber of commerce, and a long meeting is [illegible] for.

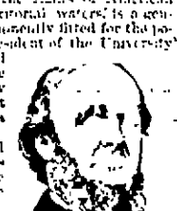
The Man Who Will Sit on the Fisheries Commission.

Mr. James Burrill Angell, who will act with the secretary of state in the negotiation for a settlement with Great Britain of the dispute growing out of the questions connected with the rights of American fishermen in territorial waters, is a gentleman who is eminently fitted for the position. He is president of the University of Michigan and was one of the commissioners by whom the latest treaty with China was [illegible].



James Burrill Angell, LL. D., is a native of Rhode Island, where he was born in 1829. He was graduated from Brown university, and at the age of 24 [illegible] his alma mater as JAMES BURRILL ANGELL professor of modern languages. Seven years later he became the editor of The Providence Journal, and held the editorship until 1866. He then became president of the University of Vermont, and in 1871 became president of the University of Michigan.

In 1880 Professor Angell was made minister to China, and was at the head of a commission of three appointed to check the Mongolian invasion of the United States. It was a delicate piece of diplomatic duty, but Professor Angell and his colleagues succeeded in performing it satisfactorily. In 1882 he resigned the office of Chinese minister and returned to this country. He is a man of great intellectual gifts and [illegible] to be peculiarly fitted for diplomatic work.

Sheriff Bain returned from a flying trip to Denver last night.

Hanlon Bros.' Le Voyage en Suisse at the opera house this evening.

The police magistrate fined a man $5 and costs yesterday for drunkenness.

Miss Lizzie Mackin of this city, now residing at Grand Junction, is visiting friends in Pueblo.

Notice the change in the Wilcox Sewer & Co. ad on the fourth page this morning.

General Passenger Agent C. S. Lee, of the Midland was in the city yesterday and registered at The Antlers.

Next Sunday the Atchison road from Pueblo will run an excursion over the Santa Fe to Madrid and to Cascade canon.

There are twelve scarlet fevers at the western end of town. Dr. James S. Fleming and J. R. Richardson.

W. T. Purdy of Breckenridge, D. S. Lovelace of Kentucky and L. S. A. Jackson of El Paso attended the prohibition convention yesterday.

Anderson & Young, the contractors, are rapidly progressing with the work on Mr. G. H. Parsons' cottage on North Nevada avenue.

The oyster supper given by the local lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars last evening was a complete success financially and otherwise.

Mr. S. J. Wright of the firm of Mason & Wright arrived in the city yesterday with a number of new patterns which he selected particularly for this market.

The funeral of Mrs. A. Burton formerly of West Cape May, New Jersey, took place from her late residence, No. 16 North Wahsatch avenue yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Phil Thomasino, the grand commercial traveler of Denver and an old whose home during the days of the late Civil war was in the city yesterday.

Grand View Arrivals—A. V. Taylor, Valley Grove, A. Coleman, Mrs. C. B. Perry city, James Donohoe, Rocky Vista, C. F. Combs, Denver, M. J. Butler, Ivy.

A set of glass has been submitted to the Ladies' committee of the Congregational church, and will be forthwith purchased by the congregation for the reception of the collection.

The Leadville district coupon will open two weeks from next week. The command is to be in charge of Judge Lee, and there will be a large number of visiting journalists present from Denver.

Mr. Henry Kruse has one of the most beautiful gardens in the city. He has at present three choice varieties of chrysanthemums in bloom, and everything in the garden seems to be in a good state of preservation for this season of the year.

There were 9 couples entered Myrtle Lodge, No. 9, Knights of Pythias, last evening, at which time the officers of Pike and Eureka lodges were installed.

Mr. H. F. Seybold, one of the celebrated artists, Messrs. Seybold & Collier, is the guest of Chief Engineer Hall. The Colorado Springs will appear at the opera house next Monday evening, when she will present her famous play, Little Barefoot.

The Western Union Telegraph company is now preparing to move its offices for points on the line of the Colorado Midland railway. Private schools and City hall offices for the Midland offices on the Midland railway will be moved to the new building on Tejon street and the second of April.

By reference to an other column it will be seen that the real estate firm of Foster & Hayes has been dissolved. The business of this firm were Messrs. W. F. Foster and C. E. Hayes. The former shipwas formed about the first of August and on the 15th of the same month Mr. Hayes was taken ill with mountain fever and at one time it was thought that he would not recover. By the illness of his partner he has considered it necessary to retrench his home at Missouri, and it has thus been rendered necessary to dissolve the partnership existing between Mr. Foster and himself. Mr. Foster will continue in the real estate and loan and insurance business at the old location on South Tejon street.

When the nomination of a candidate for coroner was before the county prohibition convention yesterday afternoon one member of the body asked if it was not necessary to name a physician for the office, giving as his reasons that both of the other parties had nominated gentlemen of the medical fraternity for this office. Another member of the convention facetiously replied to the gentleman's suggestion by stating that in his opinion every case which called for the coroner's investigation, the services of a physician would be of no avail. He thought that an undertaker would be a proper person to fill the office, but believed that Mr. Noe of Fountain would superintend an inquest about as good as any body.

Notwithstanding other attractions last evening a large audience assembled at the opera house to witness the first performance of the celebrated comedy "Le Voyage en Suisse," given by Hanlon Bros. and a select company of artists. This production of the Hanlons has given them a world-wide reputation and is known one of the most popular attractions on the American stage. The company is a large one, and the play is a success all the way through. The scenery was the best advertisement of the company's presentation. The stage was thoroughly studded. It was evident that the play would be a treat for it was anticipated such an immense of the whole city and house crowded like as was crowded into the evening performance. Further comment on the slender thread of a silly and interesting story, which is in any case other but sight of in the confusion of incidents. "Le Voyage en Suisse" has no the proportions of startling stage effects of Fantasca, but it is a play of Laughable provoking humor. Of course the interest of the performance is centered in Mr. Edward Hanlon and Mr. Edward Hanlon and Miss Emily Kean came in for a large share of the audience's attention. Miss Kean was very pretty and was received with numerous applause. The scene of [illegible] were a wonder in the line of stage [illegible] Loge, and they were further [illegible] by horse and were clear and [illegible] which made him of fair [illegible] for the little folks. Reasons Why You Should

PURCHASE OF

The Edward Ferris Dry Goods Co.

Their stock is new, the old having been sold at the great "Closing Out Sale." The prices are from 10 to 40 per cent less than same kind can be found elsewhere.

Mr. Ferris is in New York and Philadelphia, daily picking up BARGAINS. If you want to save money you can't afford to purchase before looking at our stock. New Goods are arriving daily and being marked at surprisingly Low Prices.

SILKS, VELVETS, DRESS GOODS.

We have about thirty different styles of Plain, Figured & Striped Velvets and Plushes. Custom tells us our $1.25 quality cannot be matched for less than $2.00, quite a saving for you. Would like to call your attention to some fine French Dress Patterns. There is an assortment of 8 different styles to select from, and there is only ONE of a kind, a fact that will be appreciated by most ladies. Last, but not least, let us whisper that Mr. Ferris bought them as they could be sold for a little over half the usual prices. Cold type cannot portray the beauties of the fabrics or the delicate colorings. You are cordially invited to inspect them. Remarkably Brown Hosiery reduced on account. Repeating Camel's Hair, Chevrons etc., will worth $1.00, but we want them to go quick and they will [illegible] have marked them $0.00.

Robes, with Beaded Embroidery, $5.00 cheap would be at $12.00. Camel's Hair Combination Robes, $10.00. New Yorkers buy them quick at $18.00. Now come the Ladies.

French Velvet Dress Patterns.

One quality at $30.00, the Eastern price was $40.00.
One quality at $30.00, the Eastern price was $75.00.

Both are they and a shame to sell so Low, but go they must if prices create demand.

Hosiery and Underwear.

Four cases of Hosiery received today. The prices range from 10c to $1.00. We know they are marked 25 per cent under current prices. Look at the large assortment of 25c Hosiery for Ladies, Gents and Children. Now, Gents' Underwear can be bought as low as 25c. We have the best Underwear for Ladies and Gents at 50c ever offered in Colorado—75c has been the price. Our Scarlet Underwear for $1.00 is really worth $1.37, and our $1.37½ quality is a fairy, can't be duplicated for less than $2.00. Camel's Hair Underwear for Ladies, Gents and Children. Will give more particulars next week. Our store is overflowing with New Goods.

Know all Men by These Presents.

It has come to our knowledge that because of our [illegible] our competitors in order to make a sale have resorted to cutting the price below the standard rate. Now, be it known that we will not be undersold by anyone in our line and from henceforth we shall sell Glass Wall Paper for 20c per double roll. Gilts for 50c per double roll and upward. All other grades in like proportion. It will pay you to come and see us, and we shall take pleasure in showing you these Papers whether you buy or not.

We also have for sale the very best brands of White Lead, Oils and Varnishes, Brushes, Glass and Putty.
